

Dear Friend,

This week I joined the ranks on "Twitter."

Twitter opens up government by giving you immediate insight into the work I do as a Member of Congress. Whether I am voting on a bill, meeting with Obama Administration officials, or traveling through your neighborhood, you'll know about it. My "Twitter" reports -- brief observations made throughout the day -- will be transmitted to you directly from my Blackberry.

That's on-the-scene reporting!

To receive my Twitter messages, simply visit http://www.house.gov/htbin/leave_site?/ln_url=http://twitter.com/repSteveIsrael. You can choose to subscribe to the Twitter feed as a "follower" or just visit the site to follow along.

Of course, openness in government is a two-way street, so I'll continue to rely on the benefits of your opinions!

Sincerely,

Steve Israel

Member of Congress
